What is it about model railways that holds our interest from nine to ninety? Everyone asked that question will give you a different answer. Could that be the key to it all? Certainly few hobbies offer so many different facets and that, perhaps, is the reason for its lasting and worldwide appeal. Graham Farish have been manufacturing model railways in 'OO' gauge since 1947, and 'N' gauge since 1970. In that time they have produced many notable and popular products for the model railway enthusiast. All that is currently available is produced here.

Long established customers will know that this is not a static list. Graham Farish is a story of continual addition and improvement in both 'N' and 'OO' gauge - with a long list of exciting new developments always in the pipeline. Many being production tested now.

Undisputed leader in 'N' Gauge British Outline Stock.

PRECISION IN 'OO' GAUGE

Graham Farish go to an enormous amount of trouble not only to get their models right but the colours and the printing of detail linings and markings as well. The choice in 'OO' Gauge may not be so wide, but the precision and accuracy is the same high standard that has made Graham Farish the undisputed leader in 'N' Gauge British outline stock.

PASSENGER COACHES

Many model railway enthusiasts still talk about October, 1976. That was the time that Graham Farish first released their fabulous 'OO' Coach Range in four Regional Liveries, Suburban and Mainline. With superb detail, needle axle bearings and longer raked couplings looks public demand was immediate and overwhelming. It still is.
